They undoubtedly couple their consent with certain demands, among them that the Statehood bill shall be allowed to come to a vote in the Senate and that the last three sections of the railway bill relating to stocks and bonds shall be ejiminated. The Republican regulars seemed to believe that these demands might be met without difficulty if the Democrats would furnish a sufficient number of votes to table all pending amendments that have been offered by the Republican insurgents.

It is manifest that in the present state of feeling in the Senate an agreement by the regular Republicans and the insurgents is out of the question. There were evidences to-day that the insurgents would block attempts to fix a date for the final vote. They have a number of subjects on which they intend to talk. From the Democratic standpoint Senator Caffrey argued that it was unfair for Gov. Hughes or any other advocate of the Hinman-Green bill to attempt to make the public believe that all men who opposed that measure were political thugs and men who had only their own selfish interests at heart.

"Every public position I have ever held. said Majority Leader Cobb in opposing the Hinman-Green bill, "I obtained in opposition to the organziation of the socailed bosses. That is no reason why in the present crisis I should desert what I believe to be a proper stand to prevent the sweeping away of the landmarks of nearly a century of our political life. No Senator should permit political ex-pediency to dictate his vote in favor of this bill."

Senator Davenport, who has been one Senator Davenport, who has been one of the foremost advocates of the Hinman-Green bill, criticised the legislative com-mission which investigated the primary question and said its efforts were directed solely to places where direct nominations had not been a success or decepted only the testimony which put the primary

Senator Cobb defended the commission and declared that Senator Daveport's and declared that Senator Daveport's criticism was altogether unwarranted.

"I have sat here to-day," said Senator Brackett, "and heard Senators who have never said a single word and have never breathed a single thought against bosses or the system of bosses tell how earnestly they have always been against the bosses, I shall make no pretence as to my personal position on bosses; I shall make no apposition on bosses; I shall wote against this bill, as I shall vote against this bill, as I shall vote against this bill, as I shall vote against the bills pending on the subject, because I do not believe they meet the situation.
